

To Whom It May Concern: As linehaul truckdrivers, XM radio has become an integral part of our operation. Not only does the programming help keep us alert as we drive across the country at all hours of the day and night but the information available for our destinations and routing help us prepare for inclement weather and traffic conditions. We have found that having XM radio is an important safety feature for our drivers and so much so that we have installed the service in all our trucks. Please do not allow the objections of the competition determine the rights of the public to have access to this kind of information, especially if we choose the service and are willing to pay for it. This is what free enterprise is all about. Surely, if members of the NAB had invested in this cutting edge technology there would be no such objections!! If satellite radio is the wave of the future, members of the NAB should be trying to find ways to enter the industry rather than stifle the competition.
